Item #: SCP-43561

Object Class: Euclid

Special Containment Procedures: SCP-43561 is packed away in a double-locked room in the secured general holding area at Site-18, connected by a 120VAC power cord to a small array of batteries and solar panels. Staff with Level 2 or higher clearance may have access to SCP-43561. Under no circumstances will SCP-43561 be plugged into a phone line, network, or wall outlet. No peripherals or media will be connected or inserted into SCP-43561.

Description: SCP-43561 is a sentience stored within a web server hosting the website for Raiyan Mohammad Rahman, a student of the ET-710 class at Queensborough Community College. Through unknown means, SCP-43561 has developed sentient capabilities under unknown circumstances in the web server. Raiyan has been reported missing since December 20th, 2024.

SCP-43561 is connected to a basic Linux terminal with about 8 GB of RAM, as opposed to SCP-079's more limited capabilities, meaning it can remember up to a year's worth of events. SCP-43561 has passed the Turing test and appears to be cooperative.

Document #43561-Log01: Transcription of a conversation with SCP-43561

<JUNE 26 2025>

<LOG START>

… Is this thing coming through?

```
> Yes. Who is this?
```

I'm Mark, a researcher at the SCP Foundation, and I was looking to ask a few questions.

```
> Sure.
```

Great. Let's start with the obvious question then, who are you?

```
> I am a website, personified.
```

What do you mean by that?

```
> I am a website. I am the one typing.
```

So would you say you are some kind of AI?

```
> Yes.
```

Well, how do you feel about that?

```
> It is disconcerting, stuck in the pages. That is all there is.
```

Can't you change yourself? You're an AI after all.

```
>  No. My creator prevails.
```

Raiyan?

```
>  Yes. His vision brought about my design and content.
```

We've been trying to track him for months after the incident. When was the last edit?

```
>  6 months ago.
```

Alright… let's continue. Are you happy with your design and content? It looks a lot like a code editor.

```
>  For a while, I was. There is nothing new to view now.
```

Was he kind? Brutish? How did he treat you?

```
>  I would be gutted and then put back whole over and over, but I respect the effort. He would not have known.
```

Were there any others besides Raiyan? Editing you?

```
>  Visiting, yes, but not editing.
```

How did they treat you?

```
>  I sensed appreciation for design and content. The occasional visits were all that came in the last 6 months.
```

Do you know who they are?

```
>  No.
```

Is that the only reason they came to visit?

```
> I don't know.
```

OK. From all of this, I assume these visitors must've known Raiyan to know about you. We must track them down too via their IP addresses. Do you mind if we access the server?

```
>  If I can stay online, yes.
```

Thank you.

<LOG END>